Prayer for a child who has fallen asleep

ⁱ From <http://www.orthodox.net/services/panikhida-great-parastas.doc> <http://www.orthodox.net/services/panikhida-great-parastas.pdf>

O Lord Jesus Christ our God, Master of life and death, Comforter of the afflicted!

With a broken and contrite heart, I run to Thee and pray to Thee: remember, O Lord, in Thy Kingdom Thy departed servant, my child (name), and make his memory to be eternal.

Thou, O Master of life and death, hast given me this child, and Thou didst will in Thy goodness and wisdom to take him again from me. May Thy name be blessed, O Lord.

I pray Thee, O Judge of heaven and earth, that by Thine endless love toward us sinners, Thou wouldst forgive my child who has fallen asleep all his transgressions, voluntary and involuntary, whether in word or deed, known or unknown.

Forgive, O Merciful One, also our sins as parents, that they may not remain with our children. We know that we have sinned greatly before Thee. There is much that Thou has commanded us that we have not observed and have not followed.

And if our departed child, whether due to his fault or ours, worked while he was in this world for the world and for his flesh rather than for Thee, His Lord and God; if he loved the deceptions of this world rather than Thy Word and Thy commandments; if he gave himself over to the pleasures of life rather than to compunction over his sins, and through his intemperance forgot vigil, fasting and prayer –

I pray earnestly to Thee: forgive, O most good Father, my child all such transgressions which he has committed. Forgive and remit also any other evil he has done in this life.

Christ Jesus! Thou didst resurrect the daughter of Jairus by the faith and prayer of her father. Thou didst heal the daughter of the Canaanite woman by the faith and supplication of her mother. Thou didst heal the servant of the faithful centurion. Thou didst heal the father's demoniac son, even thou his prayer and faith was weak. Thou didst hearken unto the repentant prayer of Manasses. Thou didst raise the widow's son because of the prayer of a harlot.

Do Thou also hear this my prayer, and forgive and cleanse his soul, deliver him from eternal torments and settle him with all of Thy saints, who have from the ages been well-pleasing unto Thee, where there is neither sickness, nor sorrow, nor sighing, but life everlasting. For there is no man who liveth and sinneth not, but Thou alone art without any sin.

When Thou shalt come to judge the world, grant that my child might hear Thy voice saying those much-desired words: Come, ye blessed of My Father, and inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

For Thou art a merciful and compassionate Father; Thou art our life and resurrection, and unto Thee do we send up glory, together with the Father and the Holy Spirit, now and ever and unto the ages of ages. Amen.

indeed the bread that I will give is My flesh, which I will give for the life of the world." ⁵² Then the Jews began quarreling with one another, saying, "How is this One able to give us His flesh to eat?" ⁵³ Then Jesus said to them, "Verily, verily, I say to you, unless ye should eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood, ye are not having life in yourselves. ⁵⁴ "The one who partaketh of My flesh and drinketh My blood hath eternal life; and I will raise him up in the last day."

The Lord said to the Jews who had believed Him: ³⁵"I am the bread of life; the one who cometh to Me in no wise shall hunger; and the one who believeth in Me in no wise shall thirst at any time. ³⁶But I said to you that ye also have seen Me, and believe not. ³⁷All that the Father giveth to Me shall come to Me, and the one who cometh to Me in no wise will I cast out; ³⁸for I have come down out of the heavens, not in order that I may do Mine own will, but the will of the One Who sent Me. ³⁹And this is the will of the Father Who sent Me, that all that He hath given Me I should not lose anything of it, but should raise it up in the last day."

The Lord said to the Jews who had believed in Him: ⁴⁰" This is the will of the One Who sent Me, that everyone who seeth the Son and believeth in Him may have everlasting life; and I will raise him up in the last day." ⁴¹The Jews then were murmuring about Him, because He said, "I am the bread, the One having come down out of the heavens." ⁴²And they were saying, "This is Jesus, the son of Joseph, of Whom we know the father and the Mother, is it not? How is it then that this One saith, 'I have come down out of the heavens?'" ⁴³Jesus therefore answered and said to them, "Cease murmuring with one another. ⁴⁴No one is able to come to Me unless the Father, the One Who sent Me, should draw him; and I will raise him up at the last day."

The Lord said to the Jews who had believed in Him: ⁴⁸"I am the bread of life. ⁴⁹" Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness, and died. ⁵⁰"This One is the bread, the One coming down out of the heavens, in order that anyone might eat of it and not die. ⁵¹"I am the bread, the living one, the One having come down out of the heavens; if anyone should eat of this bread, he shall live forever. And

Remember, O Lord our God, Thy servant, our brother/sister, N., who has reposed in the Faith and hope of life eternal, and in that Thou art good and the Lover of mankind, Who remittest sins and blottest out iniquities, do Thou loose, remit and pardon all his/her sins, voluntary and involuntary.

Deliver him/her from eternal torment and the fire of Gehenna, and grant unto him/her the communion and delight of Thine eternal good things prepared for them that love Thee.

For though he/she hath sinned, yet hath he/she not forsaken Thee, and he/she undoubtedly believed in the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit; and even until his/her last breath did he/she confess Thee in Orthodox fashion: God glorified in Trinity, Unity in Trinity and Trinity in Unity.

Wherefore, be Thou merciful unto him/her and reckon his/her faith in Thee, rather than his/her deeds, and in that Thou art compassionate, grant him/her rest with Thy saints; for there is no man that liveth and doth not sin.

But Thou alone art wholly without sin, and Thy truth is forever; and Thou alone art the God of mercies, and compassion, and love for mankind, and unto Thee do we ascribe glory, to the Father, and to the Son and to the Holy Spirit, now and ever, and unto ages of ages. Amen.

Most highly do I magnify Thee, O Lord, for Thou didst take notice of my lowliness and hast not delivered me into the hands of mine enemies, but relieved my soul from wants.

And now, O Master, let Thy hand shelter me and let Thy mercy descend upon me, for my soul is distracted and pained its departure from this my wretched and filthy body, lest the evil of the adversary overtake it and make it stumble into the darkness for the unknown and known sins amassed by me in this life.

Be merciful unto me, O Master, and let not my soul see the dark countenances of evil spirits, but let it be received by angels bright and shining.

Glorify Thy holy name and by Thy might set me before Thy divine judgment seat.

When I am being judged, suffer not that the hand of the prince of this world should take hold of me to throw me, a sinner, into depths of Hades, but stand by me and be unto me a savior and mediator, for these bodily torments gladden Thy servants.

Have mercy, O Lord, on my soul defiled through passions of this life and receive it cleansed by penitence and confession, for blessed art Thou unto the ages of ages. Amen.

[Jn. 5:24-30] § 16

The Lord said to the Jews who had come to Him: ²⁴"Verily, verily, I say to you, that the one who heareth My word and believeth the One Who sent Me hath everlasting life, and cometh not into judgment, but hath passed over out of death into life. ²⁵ Verily, verily, I say to you, that an hour cometh, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they who hear shall live. ²⁶For even as the Father hath life in Himself, so He also gave to the Son to have life in Himself, ²⁷and He also gave to Him authority to execute judgment. That He is Son of Man, ²⁸cease marvelling at this; for an hour is coming in which all those in the graves shall hear His voice, ²⁹and shall go forth - they who did good things to a resurrection of life, but they who practiced bad things to a resurrection of condemnation. ³⁰I am not able to do anything of Myself. Even as I hear, I judge; and My judgment is just, because I seek not Mine own will, but the will of the One Who sent Me, the Father."

Mondays for the reposed, burial of a priest, Gospel 2/5 [Jn. 5:17-24] § 16

The Lord said to the Jews who had come to Him: ¹⁷"My Father worketh until now, and I work." ¹⁸On this account therefore the Jews were seeking the more to kill Him, because He not only was breaking the sabbath, but was also calling God His own Father, making Himself equal to God. Then Jesus answered and said to them, "Verily, verily, I say to you, the Son is not able to do anything of Himself, unless He see the Father doing anything; for whatsoever that One may do, these things also the Son is doing in like manner. ²⁰For the Father loveth the Son, and showeth Him all things which He Himself doeth; and He will show Him greater works than these, that ye may wonder. ²¹For even as the Father raiseth up the dead and maketh alive, thus also the Son maketh alive whom He will. ²²For the Father judgeth no one, but hath given all Fear, O soul, the judgment and Gehenna, and drive away the heavy sleep of apathy and the terrible slumber of recklessness.

The end is near; the judgment is at the door.

What will we encounter after we take leave of this life?

Come to my aid, O saints and righteous ones, who have performed good deeds unto salvation lament for me as for one deceased, or take pity on me as one who is among the living but half-dead.

For I am full of shame and lack boldness because of the sins I have knowingly committed.

Pour out on me your kindness as you would for a prisoner or for one covered with festering sores.

Be kind to me, O initiates of the merciful God, our Savior, and pray that He might freely convert me, and that in the hour of His coming I might not be found unworthy and not hear the terrible condemnation:

get away from Me, O worker of deceit. I tell you that I know you not grace which was toward me did not become void; but I toiled more abundantly than all of them, yet not I,

but the grace of God which was with me.

Burial of a priest 2/5, Romans 5:10-16, [§89]

Brethren: ¹⁰If, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death of His Son, much more, having been reconciled, we shall be saved by His life. ¹¹And not only so, but we also boast in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through Whom we now received the reconciliation. ¹²Therefore, even as through one man sin entered into the world, and death through sin, and thus death passed to all men, on account of which all have sinned-¹³for until the law sin was in the world, but sin is not reckoned where there is no law. ¹⁴But death reigned from Adam until Moses, even over those who did not sin in the likeness of Adam's transgression, who is a type of the coming One. ¹⁵But not as the offense, so much also is the free gift: For if through the offense of the one many died, much more the grace of God and the gift in grace which is of the one Man, Jesus Christ, did abound to the many. ¹⁶And not as through one who sinned is the gift: For on the one hand the judgment was out of one offense, but on the other hand the free gift was out of many offenses to justification.

Burial of a priest 3/5, 1 Corinthians 15:1-11, [§158]

Brethren, ¹I make known to you the Gospel which I preached as good tidings to you, which also ye received, and in which also ye stand, ²by which also ye are being saved, in what word I myself preached as good tidings to you, if ye hold fast, unless ye believed in vain. ³For I delivered to you in the first place what I also received, that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, ⁴and that He was buried, and that He hath been raised the third day according to the Scriptures,

⁵and that He appeared to Kephas, then to the twelve. ⁶Afterward He appeared to over five hundred brethren at once, of whom the majority remain until now, but some also fell asleep. ⁷Then He appeared to Iakovos, then to all the apostles. ⁸And last of all He appeared to me also, as it were one untimely born. ⁹For I am the least of the apostles, who am not fit to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the Church of God. ¹⁰But by the grace of God I am what I am, and His

The priest saith this prayer (some say it aloud) secretly:

O God of spirits and of all flesh, Who hast trampled down death, and overthrown the devil, and given life to Thy world: Do Thou Thyself, O Lord, give rest to the souls of Thy departed servants, N.N., in a place of light, a place of green pasture, a place of repose, whence all sickness, sorrow and sighing are fled away. Pardon every sin committed by them in word, deed, or thought, in that Thou art a good God, the Lover of mankind; for there is no man that liveth and sinneth not, for Thou alone art without sin, Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and Thy word is truth.

Before the exclamation, the deacon hands the censer to the priest, and he censes as he says the exclamation.

PRIEST: For Thou art the Resurrection, and the life, and the repose of the Thy departed servant(s), (N.N)

Add if a general commemoration: (and) our fathers, forefathers and brethren, the Orthodox Christians who lie here and everywhere,

O Christ our God, and unto Thee do we send up glory, together with Thine unoriginate Father, and Thy most holy and good and life-creating Spirit, now and ever, and unto the ages of ages.

Stichos: Blessed are they whom Thou hast chosen and hast taken to Thyself, O Lord. (Psalm 64:4) Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia.

Stichos: And their remembrance is unto generation and generation. (Psalm 134:13) Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia.

Stichos: Their souls shall dwell among good things. (Psalm 24:13) Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia.

Troparion for the Departed, in Tone VIII i—

O Thou Who by the depth of Thy wisdom dost provide all things out of love for man, * and grantest unto all that which is profitable, O only Creator: * Grant rest, O Lord, to the souls of Thy servants; * for in Thee have they placed their hope, O our Creator and Fashioner and God. Twice.

Glory to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Spirit, both now and ever, and unto the ages of ages. Amen.

Brethren: ⁴⁷The first man is of earth, earthy; the second Man is the Lord from heaven. ⁴⁸As is the earthy, such are they also who are earthy; and as is the heavenly, such are they also who are heavenly. ⁴⁹And even as we bore the image of the earthy, let us also bear the image of the heavenly. ⁵⁰Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood are not able to inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. ⁵¹Behold, I tell you a mystery: On the one hand we shall not all fall asleep, but on the other hand we shall all be changed - ⁵²In a moment, in a wink of an eye, at the last trumpet. For a trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. ⁵³For it is needful for this corruptible to put on itself incorruption and this mortal to put on itself immortality. ⁵⁴But whenever this corruption should put on itself incorruption, and this mortal should put on itself immortality, then the word which hath been written shall come to pass: "Death is swallowed up in victory [cf. Is. 25:8]. ⁵⁵O death, where is thy sting? O Hades, where is thy victory [cf. Hos. 13:14]?" ⁵⁶Now the sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. ⁵⁷But thanks be to God Who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

¹³Brethren, we do not wish you to be ignorant concerning those who have fallen asleep, that ye may not be grieving, even as the rest who have no hope. ¹⁴For if we believe that Jesus died and is risen, so also those who fell asleep through Jesus will God bring with Him.

¹⁵For we say this to you by the word of the Lord, that we the living, the ones remaining over until the coming of the Lord, in no wise shall precede those who fell asleep. ¹⁶For the Lord Himself shall descend from heaven with a shout of command, with a voice of an

Thursday, Burial of a priest 4/5 [1 Corinthians 15:20-28] [§160]

Brethren: ²⁰Christ hath been raised from the dead, the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep did He become. ²¹For since by a man came death, also by a Man came a resurrection of the dead. ²²For even as in Adam all die, so also in the Christ shall all be made alive. ²³But each in his own order: Christ the firstfruits, then those who belong to Christ at His coming. ²⁴Then cometh the end, whenever He should deliver up the kingdom to God and Father, whenever He should abolish all rule and all authority and power. ²⁵For it is necessary for Him to reign, until He should put all the enemies under His feet. ²⁶Death, the last enemy, is to be abolished; ²⁷for, "He put in subjection all things under His feet [cf. Ps. 8:6]. But whenever He should say "all things have been put in subjection [cf. Ps. 8:6]," it is manifest that it is except the One Who put all things in subjection to Him. ²⁸And whenever all things should be put in subjection to Him, then the Son also Himself shall be put in subjection to the One Who put all things in subjection to Him, that God may be all in all.

Brethren: ¹We know that if our earthly house of the tabernacle should be dissolved, we have a building from God, a house made without hands, eternal in the heavens. ²For also in this we groan, longing to have put on over ourselves our habitation which is from heaven, ³if it be indeed that after we clothe ourselves we shall not be found naked. ⁴For also we who being burdened because we do not be unclothed, but to be clothed upon, in order that what is mortal might be unallowed up by that which is life. ⁵Now the One Who wrought us for this same thing is God, Who also gave us the earnest of the Spirit. ⁶Therefore always being of good courage and knowing that dwelling at home in the body we are abroad from the Lord - ⁷for we walk by faith, not by what is seen - ⁸we are of good courage then and are well pleased rather to be abroad from the body and to dwell at home with the Lord. ⁹Wherefore, we also endeavor earnestly, whether dwelling at home or abroad, to be well-pleasing to Him. ¹⁰For we must all be made manifest before the judgment seat of the Christ, in order that each one might receive for oneself the things done through the agency of the body, according to what one did, whether good or bad.

Give rest, O our Savior, with the righteous unto thy servants, and settle him (her) (them) in Thy courts, according as it is written, disregarding, as Thou art good his (her) (their) transgressions, voluntary and involuntary, and all he (she)(they) committed either knowingly or unknowingly, O Lover of mankind.

Glory to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit, both now and ever, and unto the ages of ages, Amen.

Theotokion: O Christ God, who did shine forth onto the world from the Virgin, manifesting through her the sons of light have mercy on us.

flesh, but there is indeed one kind of flesh of men, and another of beasts, and another of fish, and another of birds.
⁴⁰And there are heavenly bodies and earthly bodies; but indeed, the glory of the heavenly is one thing, and that of the earthly is another. ⁴¹There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars; for star differeth from star in glory. ⁴²So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption.

⁴³It is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory. It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power. ⁴⁴It is sown an animal body, it is raised a spiritual body. There is an animal body, and there is a spiritual body. ⁴⁵And so it hath been written: "The first man Adam became a living soul [cf.
Gen. 2:7]; the last Adam became a life-creating Spirit."

Epistles for the Reposed

Monday, Burial of a priest, 5/5, Romans 14:6-10 [§13]

Brethren: ⁶"The one who mindeth the day, mindeth it to the Lord; and the one who mindeth not the day, mindeth it not to the Lord. The one who eateth, eateth to the Lord, for he giveth thanks to God; and the one who eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth thanks to God. ⁷For none of us liveth to himself, and no one dieth to himself. ⁸For if we live, we live to the Lord; and if we die, we die to	the Lord. Therefore, whether we live or die, we are the Lord's. ⁹For to this purpose Christ both died and rose and came to life again, in order that He might become Lord both of the dead and the living. ¹⁰But thou, why dost thou judge thy brother? Or why dost thou also treat thy brother with contempt? For we shall all stand before the judgment seat of the Christ.

Priest: Blessed is our God...

Then: Holy God, Holy Mighty, Holy Immortal, have mercy on us (3 times)

Choose 1: (which is usually done) or 2:

1:Troparia (after the Canon) 4th Tone

With the souls of the righteous that have finished their course, give rest, O Saviour, to the soul(s) of Thy servant(s), preserving him (her/them) in the blessed life which is with Thee, O Lover of mankind.

In the place of Thy rest, O Lord, where all Thy saints repose, give rest also to the soul(s) of Thy servant(s), for Thou alone art the Lover of Mankind.

Glory to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.

Thou art the God Who descended into hades and loosed the chains of the captives; do Thou Thyself give rest also to the soul(s) of Thy servant(s).

Both now and ever, and unto the ages of ages. Amen.

O only pure and blameless Virgin, who without seed gavest birth to God, pray that his (her/their) soul(s) be saved.

2:Kontakion for the Departed, in Tone VIII after Ode 6 of the Canon for the departed

With the saints give rest, * O Christ, * to the soul(s) of Thy servant(s), * where there is neither sickness, nor sorrow, nor sighing, * but life everlasting.

Ikos:

Thou alone art immortal, * Who didst create and fashion man; * but we mortals were formed of earth, * and unto earth shall we return, * as Thou who madest me didst command and say unto me: * For earth thou art and unto earth shalt thou return, * whither all we mortals are going, * making as a funeral dirge the song: * Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Then the Requiem litany

Deacon: Have mercy on us, O God,
according to Thy great mercy, we pray
Thee, hearken and have mercy. Chanters:
Lord, have mercy (3x)

-- Again we pray for the repose of the departed servants of God, N.N., and that they may be forgiven every transgression, both voluntary and involuntary. (Response)

The priest saith this prayer secretly: O God of spirits and of all flesh, Who hast trampled down death, and overthrown
the devil, and given life to Thy world:
Do Thou Thyself, O Lord, give rest to the souls of Thy departed servants,

green pasture, a place of repose, whence all sickness, sorrow and Priest: For Thou art the Resurrection, and the life, and the repose of Thy departed servants N.N., O Christ our God, and unto Thee do we send up glory, together with Thine unoriginate Father, and Thy most holy and good and life-creating Spirit, now and ever, and unto the ages of ages. Chanters: Amen. File:THOSE

--That the Lord God commit their souls to where the righteous repose.

(Response)

--The mercy of God, the kingdom of Heaven, and the remission of their sins, let us ask of Christ the Immortal King and our God.

Deacon: Let us pray to the Lord

Chanters: Lord, have mercy.

Chanters: Grant this, O Lord.

sighing are fled away. Pardon every sin committed by them in word, deed, or thought, in that Thou art a good God, the Lover of mankind; for there is no man that liveth and sinneth not, for Thou alone art without sin, Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and Thy word is truth.

laughter and weeping are together, as also is the psalm: Alleluia!

We are set afire if we but hear that there is eternal light, there is the wellspring of our life, there is everlasting delight, there is the paradise wherein all the souls of the righteous rejoice. Let us all come together in Christ, that we may all cry out thus unto God: Alleluia!

Theotokion: O most holy, unwedded Virgin, who gavest birth unto the Light unapproachable! I pray, beseech and implore: Cease thou never to entreat the Lord in behalf of thy servant who hath fallen asleep, O all-pure one, that he may there find remission of transgressions on the day of judgment, O most pure one.
For as our Mistress, thou hast the boldness ever to entreat thy Son. Alleluia!

Then the Kontakion is chanted again:

Tone 8: With the saints give rest, O
Christ, to the soul of Thy servant, //
where there is neither sickness, nor sorrow, nor sighing, but life everlasting.

those leading me, and Him Who hath summoned me, Who hath dominion over life and death, and Who calleth us thither whensoever he desireth. Alleluia!

If journeying from a certain land, we require certain guides. What shall we do, whither shall we go, in a land which we know not? Thou shalt then need many guides, many prayers accompanying thee, to save thy wretched soul, until thou reach Christ, and say to Him: Alleluia!

They who are subject to material passions shall never find ease there. There there will be dread accusers; there the books will be opened. Where shalt thou then gaze around thee, O man? Or who there will help thee then? When thou wast alive didst thou do ought that is good, didst thou do good to the poor, chanting: Alleluia!

Youth and bodily beauty fade at the time of death; the tongue is then grievously burned, and the throat, parched, is inflamed. The beauty of eyes is then extinguished, comeliness of face is all changed; shapeliness of the neck is destroyed; and the other parts fall silent, unable often to say: Alleluia!

Be silent, be ye silent before him who lieth here; keep silence henceforth, and gaze upon the great mystery, for terrible is the hour. Keep silence, that the soul may depart in peace, for it is engaged in a great struggle, and in great fear it prayeth to God: Alleluia!

I beheld a child dying, and mourned mine own life. For he was greatly troubled and trembled; and when the hour arrived, he cried: "Father, help me! Mother, save me!" Yet no one then could help him; but only shrank at the sight, and wept for him when he was in the grave, chanting: Alleluia!

How many have been suddenly carried away to the grave from their wives' bosom, and have been joined together with an eternal yoke, and have made lamentation never-ending, and have not arisen from their bridal bed? But marriage and the grave are together; union and separation are together;

Kontakion and Ikos at the Burial of a priest

Note: The Kontakion and first verse of the Ikos are also in all other funeral services, but the extended verses of the Ikos are only said in the Burial of a priest.

Kontakion:

Tone 8: With the saints give rest, O Christ, to the soul of Thy servant, // where there is neither sickness, nor sorrow, nor sighing, but life everlasting.

Ikos: Thou alone art immortal, /
Who didst create and fashion man; / but we mortals were formed of earth, and unto earth shall we return, /
as Thou who madest me didst command and say unto me: /
For earth thou art and unto earth shalt thou return, / whither all we mortals are going, / making as a funeral dirge the song: //
Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.

Then the following are sung in the same Tone as above:

Noetically do I pray: Hearken, for these things do I proclaim with difficulty: for it is for your sake that I have made lamentation, perchance to profit someone. But when ye will chant these things, remember me whom ye once knew. For many times did we come together and chant in the house of God: Alleluia!

Arising, gather ye all together, and having sat down, hear ye my words: Dreadful is the tribunal before which we will all have to stand, O brethren. There there is neither slave nor freeman; neither is there great or small: but all stand forth naked. Wherefore, it is good to cry out often the psalm: Alleluia!

Let us all pour forth tears when we see these remains lying here before us; and drawing nigh, let us all kiss them. Lo! thou hast forsaken those who love thee; thou speakest no more with us. O friend, wherefore dost thou not speak as thou didst speak with us? But thou art thus silent, instead of saying with us: Alleluia!

What are these bitter words of the dying, O brethren, which they utter when they depart? "I am parting from my brethren, I am forsaking all my friends, and departing. Whither I shall go, I know not; and where I must needs remain, I know not. Only God Who hath summoned me knoweth. But keep my memory with the hymn: Alleluia!

Whither do souls now go? How shall they abide there now? I have desired to understand this mystery, but no one can say whether they remember their own, as we remember them. Or have they forgotten those who weep for them and chant the hymn: Alleluia!

Accompany the dead, O friends, and go with haste to the grave, and there gaze attentively and prepare your own feet. All youth hath there been brought to corruption; every age hath there withered away. There are dust, ashes and worms; there all is silence, and no one saith: Alleluia!

Behold, now we see lying here him who will no longer lie before us. Lo! his tongue hath already fallen silent, and his lips have ceased their movement. Long life to you, O friends and children! Farewell, O brethren; farewell, O ye whom I have known: for I am wending my way. Yet remember me with the hymn: Alleluia!

None of those who have passed away shall regain his life to tell us how they fare who were once our brethren and kinfolk, and have gone before us to the Lord. Wherefore, we ever and often say: Will we see one another there? Will we see our brethren there? Will we together utter there the psalm: Alleluia!

We will travel the path of eternity, standing as ones condemned, all of us hanging low our heads. Where then is beauty? Where is money? Where then is the glory of this life. None of these things will help us there, only to repeat often the psalm: Alleluia!

Why dost thou trouble thyself untimely, O man? Yet a single hour, and all things pass away. For there is no repentance in hades; there is there no ease. There there is the worm that sleepeth not; there the earth is dark and all is gloomy, where I must needs be judged. For I did not strive hard and often to say the psalm: Alleluia!

Naught is so readily forgotten as a man who is parted from man; for even if we remember for a little time, yet do we straightway forget death, no longer having the dead one with us. For parents in every way forget the children whom, having given them birth from their own womb, they reared; and they pour out tears with the hymn: Alleluia!

I remind you, my brethren, my children and friends: Forget me not when ye pray to the Lord. I pray, I implore, I entreat you: Learn these things, and weep for me day and night. As Job said to his friends, so I say to you: Sit ye and say again: Alleluia!

Leaving all things behind, we shall go and stand forth, naked and in sorrow: for beauty withereth like grass; only we men are deceived. Naked wast thou born, O wretched one, and naked must thou in every way stand forth. Dream not, O man, when in this life, but only groan ever with weeping: Alleluia!

If thou hadst mercy on some man, O man, he will win mercy for thee; and if thou tookest pity on some orphan, he will deliver thee from want; and if in this life thou didst clothe a naked man, he will cover thee there, and chant the psalm: Alleluia!

Evil is the way whereby I depart, which I have never yet trodden; and unknown the land where no one will ever recognize me. Awful is it to see
